

Become a Member of Preimplantation Genetics Diagnosis International Society (PGDIS)

PGDIS coordinates research, education and training in preimplantation genetic diagnosis (PGD), requiring a close collaboration of obstetricians, fertility specialists, embryologists and human geneticists, to insure safety and accuracy of PGD and its application into clinical practice for improvement of genetic practices and reproductive medicine.

OBJECTIVES:

- Collect and distribute the information on the progress of centers involved in Preimplantation Genetics Diagnosis (PGD) and coordinate their activities
- Organize International Conferences on Preimplantation Genetics
- Promote the implementation of accurate PGD technology available in the field
- Organize conferences and symposia, as well as corresponding sessions on PGD in association with other related Congresses
